Editorial Comment

THE CONTROL OF PREJUDICES NECESSARY
FOR PEACE AND ORDER

Whenever the editor of this newspaper gives thought to the question of world peace and the standing of this country, he comes to the conclusion that we are not doing enough to control the prejudices of our people. We are not doing enough to control the prejudices of our people. We are not doing enough to control the prejudices of our people.

And that gives us concern. On every day we see the headlines of the newspapers that tell us of the prejudices of our people. We are not doing enough to control the prejudices of our people.

It now occurs to me that the answer to this problem lies in the control of these evils, rather than in the hope for their eradication. The writer feels that it is the duty of the newspaper to control the prejudices of our people. We are not doing enough to control the prejudices of our people.

So much it is with nations. Nations, greed, prejudice, desire for power, ambition, will to exact their things, we always find. But they must be controlled. No nation must be ruled by such evil desires. The writer feels that it is the duty of the newspaper to control the prejudices of our people.

Passing to the problem of controlling international prejudices, suspicions and inability "to get along," it seems that considerable progress has been made. At the San Francisco Conference there was present the "will" to get along. The spirit of cooperation is to be present to save disputes of twenty or thirty years from now from leading to another war, then this spirit must be nourished, cultivated and caused to grow. While the spirit is strong, civilization must be able to control the prejudices of our people.

Remember that no matter what others may say, there are always plenty of others who can step in to your shoes at a moment's notice and do a pretty good job of taking your place!

Wit Parade

Here are some of the single guys that are making the headlines in your high-school papers. Just corn to the mob, we always say.

Teacher—Do you know that paper will keep you warm?

Pup—No wonder my family got so hot when I brought home my report card.

He—May I kiss you? May I kiss you?

She—Are you paralyzed?

TRIXIE TEEN SAYS—

"Watch your Soda Fountain, Junior. Do you have a book with one being asked to join the party? Do you expect a boy to pay for your Tin Roof, just because you happened to sit next to him? Do you make such a clatter with your car? Do you have taking away your car? Do you have taking away your car?"
